Roadway by Keith Bates is based on U.S. highway lettering
seen on New York street signs in February 2005.

Two weights of highway lettering would often be used on the same street sign, a condensed version for the main name and a half-size regular width for less important information like
'road' or 'street'.

Roadway is a Small Caps font. The upper case consists of condensed capitals, the lower case consists of regular width small caps, sized at 50% and superscript.

A small superscript comma and period, aligned with the lowercase, are at keystrokes < and > respectively.

A small hyphen lining with the superscript lowercase is at the en dash position (Mac: option hyphen, Windows: alt-0150).
